- Technology, Licensing & Data

Eva-Lotta Hokkonen advises both international and domestic clients on complex data protection, technology, payment services, communications, and employee privacy matters. She has developed particular expertise in navigating the intersection of financial services and data regulation, providing strategic guidance where these rapidly evolving fields converge.

Her practice encompasses financial regulation, mergers and acquisitions — with a focus on technology-driven transactions — and data protection litigation. Eva-Lotta takes a holistic approach, helping clients navigate both regulatory requirements and business challenges in the digital space.

Beyond client work, Eva-Lotta is an active thought leader in her field. She regularly delivers presentations on payment services, technology, and data regulation, and contributes to the broader fintech and data protection community through positions of trust in industry organizations. She also provides pro bono legal coaching to growth companies, supporting innovation in the technology sector.
